The draft Nene Recovery Plan has gone through more than four revisions. It is currently being revised to incorporate new information regarding decline of the population in the wild and the significance of predation in contributing to that decline. New data brought forth at this special session will also be incorporated, as appropriate, to develop an Agency Review Draft. Comments provided by agencies identified as cooperators will be considered in developing a plan which becomes The Nene Recovery Plan when it is approved by the Director of the Fish and Wildlife Service.
